REV. THOMAS N. ARNOLD.

Pays High Tribute To The Democratic Nominee For Governor.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 29.—(Special.)—The Rev. Thomas N. Arnold, of this city, one of the most widely known and best-beloved Christian ministers in this section of Kentucky, has written a letter to a friend in Montgomery county, in which he takes occasion to say something commendatory of Senator Goebel, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. That part of his letter is as follows:

"Having formerly lived many years in Covington, I have known William Goebel since his early boyhood, and have watched with interest his rise to his present commanding position. There must have been unusual ability and assurance of integrity in the young attorney when the late Senator John W. Stevenson admitted him to his office, and eventually committed to his trust, without bond, his handsome estate.

"As the partner of the Hon. John G. Carlisle, Mr. Goebel represented the firm during Mr. Carlisle's long official life in Washington, and for many years he has been a leading and trusted attorney at the Covington bar. No man in that city or in the State bears a reputation freer from reproach in his private, professional and political life than William Goebel. Unhappily, his present political eminence has made him a target for calumny.

"William Goebel is a splendid illustration of what a young man, unaided by fortune, unaided by influential friends or family prestige, can accomplish by good morals, energy and devotion to duty. His life is a model for young Kentucky manhood."

THE GREATEST ATTRACTION.

If The Season At Opera House Oct. 12th—Cake Walk.

Don't forget because it is carnival week that the "very best attraction of the season" will be the "cake walk" at the Opera House Oct. 12. All of the prize-winners of the United States will contest for the $50 purse and will bring their "Imported Ladies." No home guards at all. Such people with national reputations as "Frog Eye," "Ely Green," "King" Richard Goer and Geo. Mitchell, will be the features of the Cake Walk, also four couples from St. Louis. The first part will consist of Solos, Trios and Quartettes by the famous Trilby Quartette, and specialties by such famous artists as E. Lias Stanley, late of Richards and Pringle's Mammoth Georgia Minstrels in their wonderful "Parisian Wonder" Dances, the sensation of the year. Society, the world over is "fadding" the cake walk. It will be a performance every body can see without hesitating to any principle concerning theatricals. All of the lower floor for the white people, exclusively. 50 all over the house. Remember the date Oct. 12. Come and bring the children and your family.

LOUISVILLE CONFERENCE.

Of The Methodist Church, South, Will Convene At Glasgow.

The fifty-fourth annual session of the Louisville Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is in session at Glasgow. Bishop J. S. Key, of Sherman, Tex., will preside. There are 176 ministers and thirty-six lay delegates, with many distinguished visitors, from other conferences. The people have opened wide their houses to the visitors, and are doing everything possible to make their visit a pleasant one. The Rev. T. C. Peters, pastor of the Methodist church at that place, has been unceasing to his efforts to prepare for their entertainment. The pulpits of the various Glasgow churches will be filled Sunday by visiting ministers. The season of the conference will be held in the Circuit Court room in the courthouse, and Bishop Key will preach in this room Sunday morning and ordain the deacons, some twelve or fifteen, and in the afternoon will ordain the elders. There will doubtless be many changes in the appointments of the preachers, many having served the same church four years, which is the limit, according to the laws of the Methodist Church. This is the fourth conference that has been held in Glasgow. The first was in 1847, second 1863, and the last before this in 1880. The ministers are a fine looking body of men.

As the October Century appears simultaneously with the reception to Admiral Dewey in New York, the timeliest of its contents is Rear Admiral Sampson's hearty tribute to the hero of Manila, whom he ranks with Nelson and Farragut. This is preceded by an article of cognate interest—Lieut. Edward W. Eberle's account of the Oregon's great voyage.

The front piece of the magazine is a portrait, drawn by John W. Alexander, of the Hon. John Morley, M. P., whose historical study of Cromwell is to begin next month. A study of Mr. Morley himself, by an anonymous M. P., accompanies the portrait.

Bells Sold in the Country.

A single foundry in New Jersey, it is said, casts annually 28,000 bells for the farmers and about 4,000 for schools, churches, engine houses, etc. It is estimated by a foundryman that at least 50,000 are sold every year in the country to tillers of the soil and breeders.

Scott's Emulsion

It is like cream; but will feed and nourish when cream will not. Babies and children will thrive and grow fat on it when their ordinary food does not nourish them.

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day when taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It gets the digestive machinery in working order so that the ordinary food is properly digested and assimilated.

HARD HEELS.

Tough Feet of People Who Have Never Worn Shoes.

People who have always worn shoes think of the foot as a tender and delicate extremity. The idea of a man scratching matches on his bare heels seems as startling to us as the stories of the negro soldiers of Dahomey charging barefoot over thorn hedges in their regular infantry drill. Yet if we did not wear shoes nature would provide the former substitute, hard heels.

An old prospector in Nevada was telling stories of the Washoe Indians who live in Carson valley and the Sierra Nevada mountains. Wearing neither shoes nor moccasins, they travel on foot over the rough and stony ground, now fishing in the cold Sierra lakes, now gathering berries and seeds in the valleys, until the upper surface of their feet becomes like the outside of an old rubber ball, all chapped and cracked. Jerry Racraft, the prospector, was trying to give an idea of how tough the bottoms of their feet were.

"One day I was over at Genoa at Pete Meyer's blacksmith shop, getting my pony shod. Pete had heated his bar of iron red-hot and then cut off a chunk from the end. You know how the pieces fly when they clip off the ends that way? Maybe you have stepped on them when you were a boy. Well, one of these pieces jumped about ten feet and sunk in the dust on the floor.

"There were some Washoes camped in the rocks up on the hillside, and about the time Pete clipped off that chunk of hot iron a Washoe buck came down and stood in the door, watching him hammer out the shoe. He didn't say anything, but by and by he got interested and walked in a way. Well, sir, he planked his heel down square on that chunk of hot iron in the dust, and never twitched a muscle. There he stood, as calm as you please, looking out through his hair at Pete.

"Pretty soon smoke began to rise up from his foot, and after awhile he caught a whiff of it. He swung his head around slow and began to sniff, 'mff, mff, mff,' but he couldn't make out what it was. It smelled as much like a horse's hoof when you put a hot shoe on it as anything.

"Just as he was settling down to watch Pete again there came a pained look in his face, surprised like, and the next minute he was jumping all over the shop, kicking out like a mule and grunting: 'Wuh, huh, umph!' like that at every kick, while Pete and I were laughing to bust ourselves.

"Well, sir, that iron was burned in so far he didn't get it out until about the third kick, and then he sent it clean across the shop and bang against the wall. The Indian had a hole in his heel big enough to put his thumb in, and I don't guess he ever exactly understood how it got there, either. No, he didn't pay no shoemaker four bits to get a new half sole. Just limped up the canyon to a pine tree, filled the hole with pitch and walked back flat-footed, same as ever."—Youth's Companion.

YOUNGEST OF SHIP CAPTAINS

And Master of the Biggest Sailing Vessel Afloat.

It is given to one man only to be the youngest ship captain afloat and the skipper of the largest sailing vessel in the world. These two exceptional honors are enjoyed by James W. Murphy, aged 21, and master of the big Shenandoah.

"My people being seafaring folks," said Capt. Murphy, "it naturally fell to my lot to go to sea rather young. My first passage around Cape Horn was made at the age of 16 months, and I have been on the sea most of the time since then, with the exception of eight years spent at school at Bath, Me., my home. I have been on the Yorktown, W. F. Babcock and Shenandoah. I have served in several capacities on this ship in the four years I have been on her, on our long passages to and from England and the continent, to New York and San Francisco. Our narrow escape from capture by a Spanish cruiser while on our way to Liverpool from San Francisco, off Queenstown, a year ago, furnished a little excitement for us.

"The most exciting experience I have ever had was our escape from a meteor. One day there was a rush through the air like the descent of a huge mass falling with prodigious speed. The mass shot past our bows and plunged into the sea, leaving us gazing at each other with startled eyes, wondering what missile of the heavens had so narrowly missed us. It dawned on me at last that we had been saved by a margin of a few feet from being sent to the bottom by a gigantic meteor."—N. Y. Press.

James Reed Injured.

Mr. James Reed, struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to bruise it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians, also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whiskey in bathing it, but nothing gave any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought almost a complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Mr. Reed is one of the leading merchants of Clay Court House, W. Va. Pain Balm is unequalled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by R. C. Hardwick, Druggist.
